A COACHING GROUP

Coaching Groups rely on the shared wisdom and expertise of group members to achieve personal and group goals for success.

Coaching Groups are delivered by a professional coach who provides the skill sets and creates the atmosphere for a positive shared learning experience. The group provides stimulation for creating novel concepts and ideas, along with a level of accountability that allows for results in just a short period of time.

Coaching Groups are currently being formed at Transformations Consulting & Leadership Development. These groups are virtual and provide an economical way to capitalize on the vast amount of experiences of diverse groups of people who share similar needs and goals.
